

Chicago, Ill., 1891.

DEAR DOCTOR:

The above cut shows an applicator that excels all others in the treatment of Catarrhal ailments (nose, throat, etc.). In A, place Iodine Crys. In B, Menthol. In C, Eucalyptol; each in "surgeon" wool. This compound vapor should be drawn lightly a few minutes two or three times daily. Few, indeed, are the cases it will not control. It will block this road to the charlatan, if put in reach of the people. And it is with this end in view, as well as other good, it is thus briefly noticed to you, and priced so low as $3.00 per dozen; $1.60 per half-dozen, or 40c. for one. Order a dozen for office use, to put out in treatments, as many do, at two to three dollars per week—furnishing everything. They advertise themselves by giving relief—one tells another—all are conscious something should be done. That Catarrh has been neglected is true, of which neglect quacks have taken advantage—have had a harvest. By having three chambers (A, B, C) both the generation and diffusion of the vapors are favored. To which fact is due largely the matchless results attending the use of this simple device. Details of treatment and formula given below—your own will suggest themselves to you. Remit in any safe way and receive goods by U. S. Mail prepaid.

HOW TO USE IT.

In A place Iodine Crys., grs. $\frac{1}{4}$ – $\frac{1}{2}$, in cotton or wool ("surgeon's" only) cleverly filling the chamber. This would last two or three days, but it ought to be renewed daily. Empty the chamber when through for the day. If left in till the morrow the Iodine may be found in chamber C embracing the Eucalyptol that may not have been completely evaporated therefrom. Bear in mind that the mixing of these agents otherwise than in vapor form stifles utility. In B put a liberal deal of Menthol in wool only. This will last ten days or longer before recharging is necessary. In C drop 5 or 6 minims of Eucalyptol, diluted one part to eight of Cologne Spts., in wool only, each application. The wool in B and C need not be replaced often. The instrument should be returned to the physician to be recharged (A and B) when convenient. Applying the Iodine too strongly is the apt mistake not only with this but any other means of applying that agent to this class of ailments. As already intimated, by means of three chambers A, B, C, better vaporation and compounding or mixing of the vapors is afforded, which is doubtless the secret of the unparalleled success of this new method in the treatment of catarrh.

The vapor from the instrument as charged should be drawn lightly a few minutes two or three times daily—from two to three weeks. Then once or twice each evening about the same length of time. Then every alternate evening for a like time as before. Then once or twice weekly (prolonging the application) until the cure is complete. This is an approximation of typical cases (Chronic). Constitutional measures should not be neglected where indications obtain (Arsenite of Iron, Strychnia Arsenite and Calcii Sulphide especially being indicated usually). In acute cases a few days' use only is all that is required for their control, supplementing with an anodyne, and lessening the strength at A and increasing it at B and C.

Menthol, Eucalyptol, wool and cotton, together, can be supplied by us in 50c. and $1.00 packages, if desired, at any time, prepaid by mail, in case you fail to find them at home.
